

My name is Lisa. As a mother of two, an office manager, and a person living with HIV, I have a very full schedule. I learned of my HIV infection a few years back, when I got very sick and had to go to the emergency room. At that time, the doctor prescribed some medications for me, which I take to this day. Those medications keep me strong and healthy so that I can care for my kids and maintain a full-time job. I don't know what I'd do without them—and I pray that I'll never have to find out.

Ensure that Lisa and her kids never have to learn what it's like to be without life-saving medications. Support AIDS Action's proposal to strengthen and modernize the AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP). To learn how, link to www.aidsaction.org.
